Everybody can point to a time when their lives changed. Alana Sorensen can too, although for the monumental effect that it had, it certainly wasn't a monumental event. "A friend invited me to a class at her church on America's Christian roots," Alana said.

"The leader spoke for just a couple of minutes before I couldn't believe what I was hearing."

Alana learned how inextricably tied the Bible and America's founding really is. "Our country was formed out of the pages of the scriptures," she adds. "If we really understood that, we would be a different nation."

Alana's own citizenship took on new significance. She began devouring everything on the subject. She read nearly 100 books, including the Bible itself. That was life-changing moment number two. "I gave my life to Jesus," Alana says. "Then suddenly, I had a calling."

She tried starting issues-based ministries at other churches but got the cold shoulder—until she started the Rock's Salt and Light Ministry. The ministry helps the Rock apply a Biblical lens to governmental, social and cultural issues. "We educate on what the Bible says about the issues and then encourage people to vote for candidates and issues that line up with those values."

The ministry is a compass for those that experience confusion when given a ballot. "We're the perfect tool," she says. "Pastor Miles wants the Rock to reach a 100% voter turn out this Election Day, November 6. Creating a future for America that honors God starts right here in our church. As long as we're here ready to explain every issue, nobody has an excuse!"
