In 2000, when Rock Church was still at San Diego State University, the women's ministry began in earnest. Seven women came together as a leadership team with a common interest to grow in Christ. The growth was slow-going due to a lack of a permanent facility—even though the church was growing quickly. The original seven women were faithful to serve until the Lord called them out, one-by-one for service in different ministries.

With the future of the group a little unclear, Karen Stevens and Teresa Holderby, two women who attended Rock Church, were encouraged by the other women to start praying together because of their expressed passion for mentoring younger women. They agreed to get together and pray.

Little did they know just how much prayer God wanted from them.
