On the Sunday morning that Lynda Clerke was sitting at the Rock thinking about what she should do to serve at the church, her two great passions, helping others and all things medicine, had never intersected in her mind. Suddenly, they did.

"I should help out at the medical ministry here at Rock Church!" she thought. But when she looked for it on the Rock website, there wasn't one. She emailed Zeb Hill, the Rock Church outreach director and mentioned that perhaps, if one didn't exist, she should start it. Zeb responded, "Great! You're an answer to prayer!"

"Wait, I'm not prepared to take it all on myself!" Lynda insisted, panicked by the thought. "I can't do it."

"Well, let me tell you something," Zeb replied. "If you do take this on, you have to be clear, it's not your ministry. It's God's. God will do with it what He will. All you have to do is stay faithful and He will do the rest."

In April of 2013, Lynda, trying her best to embrace the idea of doing something she wasn't in control of, began the medical ministry. It has taken off like a rocket.
