Valerie sat gingerly in a car driven by her husband, Chad, her eyes closed. The music was low, her mind was lost in a whirl of prayer. As the car traveled north toward Sacramento, each bump, even the slightest of knocks, was another electric shock through her nervous system, which in turn fired daggers to her brain and caused her closed eyes to squint hard. It would be a two-hour drive to the church. It would seem like 22.

It had been four long years since Valerie was walking through a grocery store and slipped on a spill. When she got up, she walked over to the manager to report it. Good thing no one noticed the embarrassing slip that plunged her left foot forward and almost landed her in the splits.

But while she stood in line to pay, she looked down at her left ankle that she could somehow suddenly feel. It was starting to swell. Hmm, she thought. That doesn't look good.

We go together like Peanut Butter & Jelly.

Relationships are an enigma. Take two people from different backgrounds, families, and history and make something delicious happen. Kind of like peanut butter and jelly. At this year's relationship conference, we'll see what God says about relationships in both marriage and singleness. He has a plan and it's a good one.
