How did you become a Christian?

I was living a life apart from God. I fully believed that living for myself and chasing my desires of money, women, and partying would lead me to joy and happiness. I grew up in the Catholic church and I think because of that I knew, after years of making a very good living, living a promiscuous lifestyle and indulging in the party scene, that all of my vices were things that God was not pleased with—and that is why they didn't satisfy. So when this girl that I had been dating suggested that we go to Rock Church because it was popular, I thought I should go.

So you went and gave your life to Christ?

Well not exactly. The first time we went, Rock Church was still on Ruffin Road and the parking was so crazy that we had to park really far away. When we finally made it through the doors, it was packed. I ended up sitting behind a pillar and I couldn't see a thing. It wasn't a good first impression.
