When Steve Schisler gave his life to Jesus as a young man, he immediately fell in love with the freedom that comes with knowing Christ. That is why he is a jazz musician running the jazz ministry today.

What's the connection?

Steve grew up with a dad who loved jazz and played it from his stereo every chance he could. It turned Steve into a music nut and he began to learn different instruments at a young age. As Steve grew older, he put his ability to play the guitar, bass and drums to good use with different rock bands formed from friends around his neighborhood. But while he loved all the different kinds of music they played, it was jazz that he secretly held closest to his heart.

"I love all forms of music," says Steve, "but jazz is always trying to break free of its constraints. I love the fact that jazz invites the players to create it right on the spot."

Years later when he came to Rock Church, he saw that of all the ministries, there were no jazz bands. This was his chance.
